Among other strengthening and valuable products of the Razavi brand is Zahedi dates with a light brown skin and thick flesh around the kernel, medium-sized, and oval-shaped. These dates can be consumed fresh or dried. In both cases, their sweet and delicious taste is preserved, and their nutritional value will be completely preserved in the fresh state. The calcium present in this type of date is very high and therefore beneficial for bones.

This type of date from the Razavi brand, with a light brown and golden color, is known as one of the most popular and highest quality dates due to its wrinkled appearance and thin skin resembling a small okra. Khasouei date, in addition to its nutritional benefits, also has therapeutic properties. Consuming this date can help reduce the risk of cardiovascular diseases, reduce body inflammations, strengthen the immune system, and even help control blood sugar levels.

Piarom date is another product from the Razavi brand with high nutritional value. This date, with a thin and dark skin completely attached to its flesh, is known for its dark brown and almost black color and is a rich source of vitamins, minerals, and powerful antioxidants that are very beneficial for improving health. The antioxidants present in Piarom dates help prevent oxidative damage in the body and strengthen the health of the skin, hair, eyes, and heart. Additionally, the vitamin C in dates helps boost the body's immune system and prevent colds and various infections.

Date Halva, this special and delicious product from the Razavi Date brand can be used as a pastry and dessert. It is mainly made from a mixture of sesame seed flour with dates and other nutritious ingredients. Date Halva contains a natural sweetener (dates) and is considered one of the famous types of halva in Arab countries as well as Iran. Date Halva is cooked with suitable dates. That is why it is considered a delicious Eastern pastry and dessert with homemade origin and the most beneficial food for the body.

Date syrup is also one of the most delicious and popular natural foods from the special products of the Razavi brand that has been used for various purposes from ancient times to the present. This thick and delicious liquid obtained from dates is energy-rich and its consumption provides the body with energy. This syrup is rich in vitamins and minerals necessary for the human body, including vitamin C, vitamin B₆, potassium, phosphorus, and iron. Consuming this syrup increases the learning ability of children and students.

Razavi brand dates and date products are considered one of the prominent and reliable brands in the food industry. Due to the variety and high quality of Razavi brand dates, it is recommended to consider Razavi brand dates as a popular option for enjoying these valuable products. The unique taste and variety in these products are the result of years of experience in the food industry by a professional team alongside the precise selection of high-quality raw materials.
